Bio & Links

With over 20 years of experience, Argentinian Federico Molinari has emerged as one of the modern underground scene's foremost figures. As a bass guitarist originally trained in jazz, ambient, and electronica, in the recent years he has developed a collection of stripped-back, playful house music that has remained as relevant to the peak-time slot as it has to the after-hours.

Not afraid to go for contrast, melting old school and new tunes in a trippy way, his DJ sets always tell a certain story, creating a spectrum of sounds and emotions with a true elegant and subtle mixing style, while not losing the moment and energy on the dance floor.

In 2007 he co-founded the imprint 'Oslo' alongside Nekes. The essence of this project was 'a way to express their own ideas of electronic music' and also as a 'home base' for their own productions and those of friends.

Federicos continuous search has kept him constantly evolving, picking and adding distinct flavors to his approach to music.
